having sustained enormous losses.

A Cossack expedition, which was sent the night of December 2d to capture a Japanese battery on the Russian right flank, was only partially successful. The Cossacks wheel out the Japanese sentries, killed the gunners and got possession of the battery, but were unable to remove the guns, owing to the rankl arsion of the battery, but were unable to remove the guns, owing to the rapid ar-rival of Japanese reinforcements. On December 3d, Captain Gichkoon and oral Companetz crawled up to the Japanese position, where they re-mained under a heavy fire all Lay, mak-ing aketches of the whole position, and returned in safety.

Japanese Fled.
An attack by Japanese on Poutlioff Hill on December 3d was probably due in part distract atten to a wish to distract atten-tion from supper operations on a neigh-boring hill near the vilage of Shakhe; but these operations were discovered and repulsed and the Japanese fied. Skirmishes continued. The night of No-vember 20th, Captain Alexandroff, with TOKIO, Dec. 5—Evening.—Popular sentiment regarding the question of the assistance which neutral powers are giving to the vessels of the Russian second Pacific squadron, which heretofore has been represed, is now growing more acute and prominent newspapers are conveying the aemand for determined action by the Jajanese government. If the Russians seize a base in neutral territory, Japan probably will do likewise should urgoury demand such action. Preparations for meeting the Russian warships are progressing on a most extensive scale, particularly in the case of the may wheth is confident of solving the problem under fail conditions. The preparations of the army include the calculation that the Russians may attempt to cut the Japanese communications to the Lino Ting Peninsdia, but when the Russian vessels arrive the Japanese urmies in Maching expect to be in a position to carry on the campaigning for many months without the necessity of communicating with Japan.

"Just now I can see back to the first time I came to know Mrs, Chadwick in a business way. It was something over a year ago that I learned that W. S. Fay and Henry Wurst, of Elyria, had had some dealings with Mrs. Chadwick, They were known as shrewd business men. I began to inquire, for as a business man, I wanted to exert my effort to turn an honest dollar. I guess my inquiries reached the ears of Mrs. Chadwick, At any rate, she came to oberlin and it was there the thing began. I began looking for legitimate business. Mrs. Chadwick—well, you must judge for yourself. A second interview and I made a small loan. It was promptly met. In addition, we secured considerable splendin business. From thereon the story leads into a maze, The end of which I wish to God I could now see."

Mounting aload and stopping to most the sweat from his brow, the countenance of the banker suddenly lighted up. "Man, do you think that woman could have executed the name of Andrew Carnegle upon those notes? She may have done so, but If so she is gifted with fur anore than an ordinary cumuing.
